

Flirtation.

"Twice first at Bedford's Springs we met And quaffed its sparkling waters;
And I, enamored fool, bethought Her loveliest of Eve's daughters, We danced and sang together oft,
And sat in the pavillion, And gazed and talked, nor cared if we Were stared at by a million.

We roamed the hills and valleys, saw Ant hills and open vistas;
Our fondness sometimes though subdued
By nearness of her sisters.

At length I had a chance to say I loved her truly, dearly;
She was my angel; life was nought Without her! She looked queerly, And laughed and twirled her fan,
and said:
"The truth I must not smother;
But, Phil, I thought you knew I am Engaged to wed your brother!"
VICTIM.

FASHION NOTES.

Belts are as popular as ever for morning, afternoon, and evening toilets.
Plush and velvet figures on silk surfaces bid fair to be very fashionable.

Canvas bags or satchels are attached to seaside and mountain canvas belts.

All ball dresses are low in the neck, back, and front, but high on the shoulders.

The coming season will witness painted silks and satins in many evening costumes.

Very long trains are worn for fall dresses, but there should be but little trimming on the train, however elaborate the rest of the robe may be.

"The Princess of Bourbon" is the name of a new hat, which has a brim curved up at the sides, and the crown hidden by two long and three short feathers.

One of the French women of fashion has revived the fancy for wearing large squares of net as veils, but they are trimmed with lace instead of being pinned.

The Greek fashion of wearing a bracelet on the upper part of the arm and bands on the head is in vogue.
These bands are strikingly becoming to handsome heads and faces which approach the classical in outline. For evening wear strings of pearls, or coins of veritable Greek stamp, fall over the fringe on the forehead.

Fanny Davenport's house costs more than her husband, but the house can't elope with another girl.

Some one asked Prince G—what the great powers of Europe were He replied, as only a Frenchman could, and with the wit of Talley-rand: "They are England, Germany, France, Russia, and—women."

THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

Notwithstanding the fact that thousands of people are at present worrying themselves at most to death over this vexed question, even to the extent of neglecting their business, there are still thousands upon thousands of smart, hard working, intelligent men pouring into the great Arkansas Valley, the Garden of the West, where the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad offers them their choice of 2,500,000 acres of the finest farming lands in the world at almost their own prices. If you do not believe it, write to the undersigned, who will tell you where you can get a cheap land exploring ticket, and how, at a moderate expense, you can see for yourself and be convinced.
